CHAIRMAN'S CHATTER

Although this edition of the magazine is due for the 1st term of the year 2001, I am still wondering if this year end is the close of the millenium.

The Club Christmas lunch was a great success, judging from the numbers who attended and all the chatting that was going on. I could not get a word in edgeways to wish you all from myself and the Committee a very happy and blessed Christmas and a prosperous New Year with lots of happy hikes

Looking back on the past year, my first year as Chairman, I am pleased to say that I am happy in many ways, and I thank the Committee for all their efforts. Especially with regard to the day hikes, which are our main function, and which were generally well attended. In addition, our club has grown in membership this year by about 50 new members. As I have remarked in a previous "chatter", our hiking patterns have changed. Day hikes and Saturday afternoon hikes comprise 95% of our activities. It is sad that 'Berg' trips which were always so popular are less in number. Yet a party I led in the 'Berg' in November was overjoyed with the splendours we experienced - see write-up by Paul Stone.

As you will have noticed, we have had to increase the subscription fees this coming year, due to the ever escalating costs. The heavy increases in petrol have necessitated an increase in hike transport costs as of January 2001. This is beyond our control. The day hike leader is doing all he can to keep hikes close to home and has succeeded very well. Under his leadership we have gained some new leaders - many thanks to those of you who came forward - however we need more. PLEASE help the club and become a hike leader. You will have all the help you need to overcome any fears that you have - it really is easier than you think.

Our AGM is planned for the 7th of February 2001. Some Committee members have made themselves available for re-election, but we need new office bearers. I would like to encourage all members to support us at the AGM so that we can continue our club in the best spirit. The notice of the meeting and the AGM Agenda is set out below.

Wishing you all a pleasant festive season.

Yours in hiking

Margret Kirsten

This past year the Saturday hikes have proven to be very popular with numbers reaching as many as fifty-five. We now have several new hikes thanks to Bill's hard work with cutting away bushes and clearing paths for us. A fair number of Saturday hikers have now joined as aspirant members which is encouraging and hopefully many more will do so in future. Here's wishing you all a really super Christmas and a very prosperous New Year and hope to see all of you and your friends hiking with us this year. Thank you all for your support throughout the last year. Cheers from Celia

Hangovers and Parties

The last sentence of Celia's report turned the editors' mind (what mind?) towards thoughts of parties and the dreaded hangover. As an experienced campaigner in matters alcoholic maybe these words of great wisdom will help. Before the party wash down 5-10 Prohep with a glass of milk - olive oil is better than milk, but who can drink a glass of olive oil? Take a vitamin B complex tablet. At the party, pace your alcoholic drinks and intersperse them with glasses of water. Eat food at the party, such as nuts and other carbohydrates, but go easy on the sickly sugar/fat loaded desserts. When you get home drink two glasses of water with two paracetamol and 5 more Prohep and don't forget to kiss your other half goodnight. If you still get a hangover in the morning you bloody deserve it. Drink water, fruit juice and take vitamin C, but avoid diuretics such as coffee. Happy New Years partying.

MEMBERS' NEWS

New Members - the Committee welcomes the following new full members - Mary Perry, Brian & Marie Louiso Sugden, Gillian Crawford, Jon Stevens, Josie van den Hoek, Philip & Adele Labuschagne, Pam Todd, Clive Siepmen, Sally Browne, Colleen Lingerfelder, and the following aspirant members - Christopher Rawlins, Faith de Jager, Tom & Sheila Redfern, Raymond van Reenen, Krystyna Davenport, Kathleen Tudge, Jenny Hay and Jill Brooke.

Equality for Women - having long envied the ease with which men can "take a leak", there is now a device on the market that enables women to pee standing up. Joe Strayton passed this information on in the form of an local newspaper article which described the invention called an "Eezaawee" as being a re-usable device with a shaped plastic cup and a length of pipe. The mind boggles.

Kitten Rescue - on the Ntulu Gorge hike, the Ramblers found a couple of kittens that had been sealed up in a cardboard box and deposited on the side of a busy road. One of the kittens had clawed it's way out, crossed the road and was covering in the bush. What kind of person can be so cruel? John & Denise took one home and Christine & I took charge of the other. Both are doing very well and causing havoc in the two households - special food, litter trays etc, and existing dogs & cats with noses out of joint. Ours has been named "Rambling Rose", or "Rosie" for short. John & Denise's Ginger Tom maybe called "Lucky" or just "Cat".

Camping Equipment for Sale:- over the years, the Club has purchased camping equipment for its members use, but unfortunately in recent years this stock has been grossly under utilized and is just deteriorating in storage. The Committee has agreed to dispose of the majority of this equipment, comprising old ridge tents, old 2,3 & 4 man tents, large gas cookers, gas cylinders, gas lamps, large aluminium pots and some smaller items. Purchase prices will be minimum and any items remaining will be donated to under-privileged organisations. We will be arranging a weekend early in the New Year to have all the items on display. For info contact Chris Dobson- 7651824.

Austrian Alps Hike - 27.08.2000 - 12.09.2000 by Andrew Gregory

The South African contingent consisted of Anitha Jaipal, George Archibald, Colleen Lingerfelder, Luciano Columbo, Andrew Gregory and Bill Hyslop (Leader). Dave Wood and Mike Gee from Wayfarers Club made up the UK contingent. The aim of the hike was to traverse the spectacular Rätikon + Silvretta Alps on the high level route starting at Burs and ending at St Anton in the Tirol, and staying in "Hütte" (mountain Hotels) along the route.

On the day of our arrival, after the overnight flight from South Africa, we took the train from Innsbruck to Bludenz, a bus to Burs and then climbed 1000m to the Sarotta hut on the slopes of Zimba, an extremely tiring day. We reached the Lünser See and Douglass Hütte on Day 3 with the weather turning foul. Supper consisted of delicious Vienna Schnitzel followed by the best apple strudel of the trip (staple diet for the trip) -'what no Chelsea buns?' Although Day 4 was heavily overcast the party progressed to Totalp Hütte to make an ascent on the Schesaplana (2995m). Bill remained at Douglas Hütte to meet Mike and Dave the next day. On Day 5 the weather cleared briefly and we were able to summit the Schesaplana in newly fallen snow. Although Day 6 was heavily overcast (approx. 5m visibility), we decided to continue along this section of the Rätikon range to the Lindauer Hütte, unfortunately missing the spectacular views of Switzerland. It became evident on this leg that one of our members (no names mentioned) had a strong affinity for mud.

We found that the Lindauer Hütte had an excellent drying room. The restaurant served goulash soup and gluhwein, both suitably warming. In spite of heavy clouds and a low temperature, the next day we decided to continue to the Tilsuna Hütte (one of the highest huts). This day turned out to be memorable because we walked a good distance through snow (which was not expected) to reach Tilsuna hut. With heavy snow clouds about, Bill called off climbing Sulzfluh (2918m) and we had a full day's walk through thick snow and low visibility at times to the village of Gargellen.

After recovering in the picturesque Austrian village of St Gallenkirch (for a well earned rest), we took the bus to Bielerhöhe on the Silvretta Dam and walked to the Wiesbaden Hütte. Unfortunately due to heavy snowfalls we did not attempt Piz Buin (3312m) over the Vermunt glacier, but climbed Hohes Rad (2934m, also capped in snow) instead. The remaining 2 day trip from Kappl to St Anton was an epic over the Verwall Alps. A sightseeing day in Innsbruck Old City (where George was given the title of champion apple strudel eater) completed a very successful trip.

Marathon Walk in Namaqualand by Audrey Vickers

I recently took part in a Marathon walk with a difference, this was to be an Eco-Venture Challenge 301 km walk off the beaten track in Namaqualand, beginning at Nababeep, near Springbok and ending 10 days later at Elands Baai. It was not a conventional slog from A to B, but a series of daily 30 km walks for 10 days, taking in the rugged beauty of the mountainous, arid, Namaqua countryside. It gave us a wonderful opportunity to walk amongst the Spring flowers for which the area is well known, and which were blooming in profusion. Each daily 30 km stretch was a unique experience and we never knew beforehand what to expect. Don't let anyone tell you Namaqualand is a flat desert wasteland, far from it, we walked up and down mountain passes, into remote valleys, along dry river courses and over rocky hills. Most of the walk was on lonely gravel roads, going over farms and hills leading to remote Nama communities, who eke out a subsistence living with their goats and sheep and cultivating areas of wheat amongst the rocks.

The challenge was our ability to walk the 30 kms a day for 10 days. We were a group of eleven women, all unknown to each other from different parts of South Africa. Sorry guys it was a women-only event. We spent nights at guest farms, B&B's and farm cottages and one night in a local Matjies Huis. There was a support vehicle accompanying us all the way to give refreshments and moral support, when the going got tough at the end of the day. It was great to see the determination of those with sore, blistered feet and aching limbs, and no-one gave up the challenge. The support from team members was fantastic and this pulled us through. I was giving the group 20 years and more and am happy to have completed the challenge with ease and no blisters. It was a great experience physically and psychologically.

*Two Ramblers went to the dentist. Inside one said to the dentist, "I want a tooth pulled out and I don't want any Novocain as I'm in a hurry."
"Well," said the dentist, "You're very brave. Which tooth is it?"
The hiker turned to his silent companion and said: "Show him your tooth, Annora."*

Vergezient by Paul Shone

By the kind offices of Margret Kirsten of the Durban Ramblers Club and Margaret Roberts of the Pietermaritzburg Ramblers Club members were invited to spend a week-end walking on the farm Vergezient. It is situated on top of the Berg to the right of Olivier's Hoek Pass. The Maritzburg contingent consisted of Margaret R., Joan B., Pam and Dennis, Tony, Dave, Ronnie and Paul S., whilst the Durban contingent were Margret, Colin, Chris, Trish, Dawn and Anitha.

We travelled up in partly cloudy weather only to discover that it was pouring in the Berg with mist. Once in the Free State we turned off to Retief's Pass and then to Vergezient where we arrived at 08h30 and my heart sank. Not only was it pouring with rain but one could see little except mist, and Vaalies in their 4x4's and Mercedes. I couldn't help thinking what sort of a weekend are we going to have?

I needn't have worried. I soon discovered that Ramblers are delightful people no matter where they come from, and although it only periodically stopped raining, the mist lifted a little and we caught glimpses of the magnificent vistas that awaited us. We were soon settled in a newly erected barn-like structure with a large social area, bedrooms at one end and very adequate toilet and shower facilities at the other. In the centre was an old Dover wood stove and gas rings for cooking. Three electric geysers provided gallons of hot water, at the touch of a tap, day and night. Upstairs was a dormitory and a gallery where the Maritzburgers slept on thick mattresses every bit as comfortable as my bed at home. A few diehard hikers donned their wet gear and woolies and went for a walk, returning later wet but exhilarated. Others took their 4x4's to Little Switzerland for cream scones and coffee. The rest of us sat around the warm Dover stove, drinking coffee, eating and chatting. Sundowners were quaffed around a log fire on the enclosed verandah. How cosy I felt as I dropped off to sleep that night, snuggled in my sleeping bag listening to the rain on the tin roof.

Sunday morning broke with cold wind and drizzle, but the mist had lifted, so we could see the magnificent panorama of the Berg from the Sentinel and Amphitheatre right down to Cathkin Peak. Waterfalls were everywhere with the Tugela Falls particularly strong. The Gautengites decided that the weather was not going to clear up and packed up. We were sorry to see them go. About 09h00 the drizzle stopped and a group of us decided to risk a walk. Dressed warmly against the cold wind, with wet gear handy we set off on the wind swept trail. First up to Heidersig then along the Dragon's Spine and Protea Pavement to iTshilimpisi, a big rock where we sheltered from the wind, enjoyed the breathtaking views and had tea. Continuing down, we entered Oom Pieter se Bos and continued in it along the bottom of a krantz to Yellowwood Tea Gardens for an early lunch. The well-marked trail lead over grasslands across streams flowing strongly from the rain, until we came to the Vergezient Falls, a ribbon of water blown hither and thither. After admiring this scene we went up to Klipdp, then boulder-hopping up to Vergezient Kloof and back to the barnhouse for coffee, biscuits and a lovely hot shower. Another evening around the fire with those who wanted to, braaing.

Because some wanted to leave at 14h30 on Monday, we set off just after 07h00 on the New Beginnings Trail. The weather had improved a little although cloud prevented us from seeing the tops of the Berg. Later in the day we even had a little sunshine. The trail led us along the top of the cliff past Leaky Lake, then down through a forest to Lotherien's Gate and further down to Vergazent Falls. Still down to Crook's corner and The Mission where the sandstone walls were solid as ever. Still further down was New Beginnings. From where we were sitting in a cave with another waterfall dropping sheer down in front of us, the villages of Jagersrus and Drakensville seemed no more than a kilometre away. We had lunch, looked for the bushmen paintings and then took the long upward trek back, and home. On the way back I thought - what a weekend for only R52 per night.
